

FRUSTRATE ATTEMPTED JAIL DELIVERY AT CO. JAIL

THREE SAFES IN FRANKLIN WERE CRACKED

But Robbers Got Small Amount of Coin For Their Hard Work

Three safes at Franklin Grove were cracked during the night by bandits who worked probably more than two hours drilling and prying open strong boxes without being discovered, and who for all of their trouble, obtained probably not more than two dollars in pennies. The Dyer and Herbst elevators offices were entered, windows being pried open and glass broken to gain entrance. At the Northwestern depot the greatest damage was done but only a very small amount of money, which was obtained by completely wrecking a gum vending machine, was taken.

By forcing the lock on a south window to the women's waiting room in the depot entrance was gained. A king pin from a coupler on a freight car in the yards was used effectively in prying apart the small iron bars at the ticket window and the glass was cracked. In the ticket office the king pin was again used to knock the combinations off the safe door and the strong box on the inside. A new breast drill with a 5-16 bit was used in drilling into the lock of the safe box, which was empty. The crackmen worked deliberately and without being disturbed, almost completely wrecked the safe without being compensated for their trouble. They ransacked and jammed other drawers, apparently in search of money, but without success. They then turned their attention to a gum vending machine in the waiting room and using one of the rods which had been broken off the ticket window grating, succeeded in wrecking the machine and obtaining about two dollars in pennies.

Find Little at Elevator.

At the Dyer elevator office, a window on the north side was forced open and here they again worked for some time. The box, which was empty, had not been locked and the interior was pried and splintered until the steel strong box was removed. The breast drill was again brought into use and the lock drilled, releasing the lock.

Three small drawers on the inside of the steel box were ransacked and one of these containing insurance papers was taken. A small cash drawer in the office was pried open and 20 cents taken. The office was generally ransacked but nothing of value was found.

At the Herbst elevator, one block east of the Dyer elevator, entrance was gained by forcing a window lock into a store room. Some time was spent in trying to jimmy a door leading into the office, but this was abandoned and a pane of window glass was broken, admitting the intruders to the office. Here they centered their efforts on the safe and succeeded in opening the cash box which was empty. Other drawers in the office was ransacked indicating that the crackmen were in search of money only.

Discovered this morning. The new breast drill and rough instruments which had been gathered up in the railroad yards were left lying on the floor and on the counter at the Northwestern depot, which indicated that this was the last place to be visited. None of the robberies were discovered until the places of business were opened this morning.

Sheriff Ward Miller went to Franklin Grove at once after being notified by The Telegraph of the triple robberies and conducted an investigation. Northwestern special agents from Chicago were notified at once and arrived at noon today and were assisting Sheriff Miller in a further investigation. The officers were centering their investigation upon finger prints found in each of the three places and were making an effort to ascertain where the new breast drill was obtained.

Eagle Attacks Boy

Somerset, Ky., Sept. 23—(UP)—George Meerc, 8, of Ruth, near here was picked up by a bald eagle and carried aloft ten feet before the bird dropped him. It was revealed today.

The boy, weighing about 50 pounds, was playing with four companions on a hillside when the eagle swooped down and fastened its talons in the slack of George's overalls. The shouts of George's friends caused the eagle to drop him, they said.

The boy was rendered unconscious in the fall, but rallied after about 30 minutes. He said the eagle had a wing spread of about 10 feet.

MRS. M'CORMICK IS A CANDIDATE FOR U. S. SENATE

Byron Woman Announces Her Candidacy In Letter Today

Byron, Ill., Sept. 23, 1929. Announcement by Ruth Hanna McCormick.

I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of United States Senator from Illinois at the primary election April 8, 1930. Obviously, a candidate runs for office because he wants the office. But our system of choosing United States Senators wisely provides an opportunity for the voters of each party to examine the qualifications of all candidates before the party tickets are submitted to the people for election in the following November. In the campaign which I shall soon start, I propose to speak to as many voters and visit as many of the communities of Illinois as my duties in the House of Representatives will permit. I shall then discuss fully those facts which may be held to affect my own qualifications for the Senatorship and those national and international issues on which I will be called upon to vote if elected to the Senate.

I appreciate deeply the offers of support which have come to me, many of them long in advance of my decision to seek the Senatorship. Those friends and all other citizens are entitled now to my assurance, unqualifiedly given, that my candidacy is free from any direct or indirect obligation except only the fundamental obligation of integrity in public service. No candidacy for this high office deserves to succeed if it is actuated by any purpose involving political reprisal or personal reward or by any influence whatsoever, other than a genuine wish to administer a public trust honorably and well.

Vandals Steal Basket Off Grave; Owner Makes Appeal

What kind of a person is it who would steal decorations off a grave? Has that kind of a person enough human kindness to return the stolen property if he knew how greatly the owner valued it?

At the time of the death of a certain Dixon woman neighbors of the beloved lady sent a large basket of flowers. The basket, which is made of reed and is about three feet tall, with a large oval handle, and is light brown in color, has been kept by her family and on Sundays they take it, filled with flowers, and place it on her grave during the day, taking it home again in the evening. When they went to the grave last evening they found that the flowers had been dumped out and the basket was missing. The grave is located southeast of the mausoleum in Oakwood Cemetery.

Because of the memories with which the basket is associated, the article was a cherished possession of the deceased's husband and his sons. They will gladly pay a reward for the return of the basket or for information leading to its return. Any one knowing anything about it will confer a great favor by notifying the Dixon Evening Telegraph office or telephone Y1332.

DEATH CAME TO OGLE BANKER THIS MORNING

Frank J. King of Rochelle Passed Away Early Today

(Telegraph Special Service)

Rockford, Sept. 23—Frank J. King, aged 56, prominent in northern Illinois banking circles, passed away at his home in Rochelle at an early hour this morning, his death resulting from a lingering illness. Mr. King had served Platteville township as supervisor for the past ten years until last July when ill health forced him to tender his resignation. Prior to that time he had served five years as a member of the Ogle county board of supervisors from White Rock township. During this time he was elected chairman of the board and was a member of many of the more important committees.

Born in White Rock township, September 20, 1873, Mr. King attended the country schools and graduated from the Rochelle high school. At the age of 18 he accepted a position as a clerk in the private banking institution at Kings. Years later when the bank was organized under a state charter he was named president of the institution. In 1915 he was personally responsible for the organization of the Chana state bank.

He was united in marriage to Edna B. Francis in 1899. One son, Francis of Kings, two daughters, Mrs. Lucy Miller of Kings and Mrs. Helen E. Peterman, wife of State's Attorney Martin V. Peterman of Oregon, one brother, Harry L. of Kings and four sisters survive.

Mr. Kings was former secretary of the third group, Illinois Bankers Association. He was a director of the Rochelle Knitting Company, a member of the high school board of education of the Rochelle community high school, of which he was president when the new school was erected. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church, a member of the Blue lodge and Chapter of the Masons, the Rochelle Elks and Woodmen societies. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 from the Presbyterian church in Rochelle with burial in the White Rock cemetery.

Waggoner in Irons On Way to New York

Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 23—(UP)—Charles D. Waggoner, Telluride, Colo., banker, started back to New York in irons today to stand trial for operations that last month cost six New York banks $500,000.

In the custody of Hugh Patton, United States Marshal, and F. M. Bruner, a special deputy, Waggoner left here on the Los Angeles Limited of the Union Pacific railroad at 8:15 A. M. He will reach Omaha at 8:35 P. M. and Chicago at 9:30 A. M. tomorrow.

Waggoner was in good humor. He smiled and waved his hand to friends who gathered at the train.

Three Die in Crash

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 23—(AP)—Three men were killed when a Western Canada Airways plane fell into Lake Manitoba, 120 miles north of Winnipeg, yesterday, said a statement today by J. A. MacDougall, treasurer of the Western Airways Canada Airways. The dead, said the report, are George McKee, Toronto pilot; Arthur Reach, Winnipeg, engineer; Arthur Hunt Chute, New York novelist.

YANKS MANAGER IS FIGHTING FOR HIS LIFE TODAY

Miller Huggins Reported Near Death in New York Hospital

New York, Sept. 23—(UP)—Miller Huggins, the man who converted the New York Yankees into one of the greatest baseball machines of all times, was reported near death today.

Crysipelas of the face was given as the technical reason, but in New York the fans knew he likewise was fighting against a broken heart, despite the masked smile he wore as his great machine faltered at the end of this year's pennant race.

Huggins was taken to St. Vincent's hospital Friday. His temperature today was exceedingly high and he is fighting with all the valiance that he has shown in the tempestuous career he has had with the New York Yankees.

Blood transfusions were performed this morning, Ed Barrow, the business manager of the Yankees announced. The Rev. J. E. Price, pastor of a Methodist Church where Huggins often attended service, was called to the bedside at 12:10 P. M.

The little manager of the Yankees stands but a trifle more than five feet—had set his heart on winning his fourth straight pennant this year, a feat no other major league manager ever had accomplished.

Down in Florida last spring he said: "I think we can sneak one in there and then rebuild a bit and maybe win again. The law of averages is hot on our trail. It's fighting in favor of the Athletics. But give me that pennant and then let the law of averages do its worst."

But Babe Ruth was out for a month. Gehrig couldn't hit his stride. Hoyt had a bad sickness which set him back in pitching. The Athletics rolled along beautifully advancing step by step towards the pennant. Little by little the great Yankee machine had to go back in the pennant race and little by little Huggins suffered.

Came September. The Yankees had been trounced thrice by the Athletics.

"Well, we can't win all the time," Huggins remarked. "We are licked and there is no sense kidding the public. Those visions we built up in March down in Florida have been swept away."

Huggins chuckled but it was hollow. There was not the customary mirth to the laugh.

His bosses, Ed Barrow and Col. Jakob Ruppert, suggested he take a vacation and rest but he would not, preferring to remain with his team.

Already he had been bothered with a boil but he had paid no attention to it. It developed into crabs. His temperature rose. But he stayed in the battle until the ravages of the illness forced him down and will keep him—if he does recover—away for a year.

His broken heart is emphasized by the remark he made after the last trouncing from the Athletics: "I guess I wasn't built to be a loser."

Sterling is Renamed Member State Board

Robert W. Sterling has been reappointed a member of the State Pharmacy Board, on which he has served for a number of years. The reappointment was made by M. P. Walsh, Director of the Department of Registration and Education. Mr. Walsh was directed by Governor Louis L. Emmerson.

In his letter to Mr. Sterling, Director Walsh says, "Your services on this committee have been highly efficient, and I have received numerous favorable comments which have come to me during my incumbency of four months as Director of Registration and Education."

Mr. Sterling's many friends will be highly pleased to know of his success in his work for the state and of the manner in which he has conducted his work for the department.

Deneen Charges To Senate Committee

Washington, Sept. 23—(UP)—The Senate Judiciary committee today referred to a sub-committee the accusations preferred against Senator Deneen, Republican, Illinois, by Carl G. Gigliotti, attorney and president of the Immigrants' Legal Aid Society of Chicago.

The sub-committee is composed of Senators Gillette, Republican, Massachusetts, and Walsh, Democrat, Montana.

Gigliotti's accusations are under report to deal with an alleged alliance between Deneen and "Diamond Joe" Esposito, Chicago gangster, who was killed last year.

TWO YOUTHFUL BANDITS SENT UP FOR LIVES

Robberies, Murders Confessed: Done To Get Party Funds

Chicago, Sept. 23—(UP)—Two youthful bandits who confessed they resorted to robbery in order to get money with which to entertain their girl friends, must spend the rest of their lives in jail. Judge Otto Kerner ruled today.

Judge Kerner imposed sentence on four different counts on Robert Camy, 18, and Earl Nicholson, 20.

The sentences were as follows: For the murder of George Schreiner, druggist, life.

For the murder of Leon Raymond, druggist, 84 years.

For the robbery of Robert Cook, one year to life.

For assault to kill, in connection with the beating of a night watchman, one to 14 years.

Judge Kerner said the sentences must run consecutively. In imposing the extremely heavy sentences, Judge Kerner said he was moved to spare the two from the electric chair only by their youth. He said also that the fact the two confessed to the crimes indicated that perhaps they were sorry for their acts. He said he hoped the sentences would act as deterrents to other youths who might be inclined to turn to crime.

Camy and Nicholson were arrested here about two weeks ago and after extensive questioning they finally admitted the robberies and the murders of the two druggists, all of which occurred last spring.

About Half of Corn Out Of Way of Frost

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23—(UP)—Reports compiled here on the condition of the corn crop throughout the state by A. J. Surratt, government agricultural statistician, show that about 50 per cent of the corn crop is out of danger from killing frosts.

If favorable weather continues, 72 per cent of the state's crop should be safe. A small per cent of the corn crop will have to be fed as fodder while some will have to be used as silage to derive the best use from it.

Most of the crop in the southern portion of the state was several weeks late in planting due to the soggy condition of the fields. The farmers in the southern portion of the state remark that this year has been one of the worst seasons for corn growing in years.

Most of the crop in the central and southern part of the state is expected to be fair.

Airplanes Took Toll Of Five Lives Sunday

Chicago, Sept. 23—(UP)—Airplane crashes took five lives in the middle west over the week end.

Charles Folsom, 20, and Seth Baughn, 15, were killed near Anderson, Ind. yesterday, when their plane went into a tailspin and crashed from 200 feet. Folsom was at the controls. He had been flying only a few months.

Lieut. Mark H. Redmon was killed near Fairfield, O., when his plane got out of control shortly after the take-off and fell 300 feet.

Fred Center, 24, licensed pilot, and Lester D. Baker, student, were killed when the plane in which they were riding, crashed near Iroquois, Ill. Baker apparently became excited and pulled the stick the wrong way. The plane burst into flames and both were burned.

On Rampage In Inn

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 23—(AP)—Said to be crazed from the effects of liquor, James Martin, 27, early today shot and seriously wounded William Gallagher, who attempting to disarm him following a shooting spree at the Romeo Inn, ten miles north of here. Later he said he remembered nothing of the affair.

Martin entered the inn witnesses said, and announced he intended to have some fun. He fired a revolver twice at the ceiling while dancing couples fled for safety. When Gallagher approached him in an attempt to wrest the gun from him, Martin shot Gallagher twice in the abdomen. He is in a serious condition.

When police arrived Martin was sitting outside the inn during the patrons to appear in the door, witnesses said.

Shot Theater Usher

Chicago, Sept. 23—(UP)—Angered when Charles Bell, 60, usher in the Gem burlesque theater, told him on balcony seats were vacant, Sam Porcaro left the theater last night, returned with a revolver and shot Bell five times, a sixth bullet wounding Edward Richards, 16, standing in an aisle. Bell probably will die.

Guests in the theater were panic-stricken and many fled. Twenty chorus girls ran to the street in stage costumes.

Porcaro was arrested shortly after the shooting by Lieut. Kenneth Cox of the Detroit police department, who was here on department business.

WIFE SLAYER ON STAND TODAY IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

Earl Peacock Tells Of Killing Young Wife After Quarrel

Court House, White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 23—(UP)—The trial of Earl Francis Peacock, 22, for his confessed slaying of his young wife, Dorothy, entered its second week in Supreme court today.

Attracted by the prospect of hearing the suave radio salesman testify how he beat and strangled Dorothy to death last April, the largest crowd of the trial sought admission.

Before Peacock testified, however, his counsel, Sydney A. Syme, sought to pave the way for showing that his client was driven "insane" by knowledge of his wife's infidelity. He submitted a brief to Justice Arthur S. Tompkins arguing that testimony regarding Dorothy's relations with other men was pertinent. He also drove in that direction in his cross-examination of Mrs. Adelaide Heinzelmann, mother of the dead girl and one of the last witnesses for the state.

"Didn't Peacock tell you that he knew his wife was living in New York with some men?" Syme asked.

"He said he knew she was down there and that in the same apartment with her were some men," Mrs. Heinzelmann said.

"Did Peacock tell you more than once he had quarrelled with Dolly because of Eugene Bussey?"

"Yes, he did."

"When your son-in-law said he didn't trust this other man with your daughter, didn't you ask if your daughter was doing anything wrong?"

"No, I didn't ask."

"Here was a case of your 20-year-old daughter quarreling with her husband because her husband said she was having relations with other men and she was living in your own house—didn't you ask the cause of the trouble?"

"No, I didn't."

"You just took what Earl told you and let it go at that?"

"Yes."

"Didn't you as a mother feel compelled to get your daughter away from the conditions that your son-in-law complained about?"

"No," answered the dead girl's mother.

District Attorney Frank H. Coyne read four statements which Peacock made to police officers. They reiterated that Dorothy cast aspersions on his apartment; that they slapped each other's faces; that she picked up a book end from the table and that as she flung it toward his head, he drew his gun and struck her with the butt so hard a bullet fell from the magazine.

This sent her sprawling, according to the statement, and she began to scream. Peacock's confession then continued.

"I knew blamed well that something would happen if the neighbors heard her screaming at that hour of the night. Then to stop her from screaming I jumped on her and I was frantically choking her to stop these sounds."

"We still had our coats on at that time and we were very hot from the excitement. Then I noticed that she was getting limp and I was panic-stricken."

Peacock estimated that not more than 15 minutes had elapsed from the time they entered the apartment until his wife became "limp."

Get Forwarning Of Volcano Eruption

Hilo, Island of Hawaii, Sept. 23—(AP)—After 58 earthquake shocks had been felt within three hours near the extinct volcano Hualalai yesterday, residents of the North Kona district of this island today prepared to evacuate should an anticipated eruption materialize.

Repeating in series, since the tremors were first felt Friday, the quakes have shown intensity at times, presaging volcano observers say, a possible eruption. They pointed out that before each of the eruptions of Kilauea this year and the explosive eruption in 1924 of the same cone, continued shocks were recorded.

Curb Review

New York, Sept. 23—(AP)—Selling pressure was renewed in today's curb market after an opening outburst of buying had carried more than a score of issues to new high levels for the year. While all of the early gains were not wiped out, many stocks were carried to 3 points below their earlier high levels.

Bear selling played an important part in the decline, which received some impetus also from talk of higher call money rates.
Public Utilities were again heavily bought on merger rumors involving several of the large companies. New high records for the year or longer were established by all of the middle western issues, Cities Service, United Gas Improvement, United Gas and Arkansas Natural Gas, Brazilian Traction Power & Light was heavily bought, crossing 69 for a gain of more than 4 points. Electric Bond and Share advanced from 183 1/2 to 186, up 2 1/2, and then slipped back to around 182. Allied Power & Light fell from a high of 83 1/2 to 80, and then snapped back to around 82. American Superpower dropped 3 points below its early high.

Wide fluctuations took place in some of the high price specialties. Aluminum Co. of America dipped 17 points to 432, or more than 100 points below the high of the year. Crockery Wheeler, which ran up 100 points on Saturday, moved up nearly 50 more today to another new high record at 740, which contrasts with the year's low of 127 1/2.

Mixed movements took place in the Investment Trust and Trading Corporation groups. Blue Ridge common dropped below 10 to another new low record. Goldman Sachs sold down more than 3 points but made partial recovery. National Investors dropped from 377 1/2 to 370 1/2 but quickly recovered its loss.
Oil shares held fairly steady on reports that Secretary of the Interior Wilbur had approved the Kettleman Hills conservation agreement.

Will Receive Bids
On State Buildings
Springfield, Sept. 23—(AP)—State Architect Herrick Hammond today announced bids will be received here October 8 on the buildings planned by the State Department of Public Welfare to relieve over-crowded conditions at state institutions.

The work advertised includes ten new infirmaries buildings at the Elgin State Hospital; ten at the Lincoln State School and Colony; and five at Dunming (Chicago) State Hospital.

The infirmaries buildings will be, on the average, 100-bed buildings of the latest cottage style design. Only one building of more than one story is included. It is to be at Dunming.

The work included construction of a cell building at the Illinois State Reformatory at Pontiac, one of three 1,000 cell buildings to be constructed at the penal institutions.

Bids were also asked on the completion of the 124th Field Artillery armory in Chicago. The work includes general electric, plumbing, heating, ventilation, fire equipment and temperature control.

Draining the crank case of a model A Ford coach, the car was driven a distance of 10.9 miles without lubricating oil. The new lubricant, a graphitized oil, is claimed to be the highest grade filtered paraffine base oil which carries the correct amount of pure soft, unctuous Colloidal Graphite in suspension for motor lubrication. It is the lubricant that successfully meets today's high speed motor requirements, it is claimed.

The demonstration was held from the Prescott Service Station, which has been selected as the agency for this district of Illinois.

Ship Builders' Interest In Geneva Meeting Is Told Committee

BY KENNETH G. CRAWFORD
United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, Sept. 23—(UP)—The story of American Ship Builders that they paid William B. Shearer, Marine expert, more than $25,000 as "an observer" not a "propagandist" at the Geneva disarmament conference was retold to the Senate investigating committee today by Samuel W. Wakeman Quincy, Mass., vice president of the Bethlehem Ship Building Company.

Wakeman echoed the previous statement of Clinton L. Bardo, president of the New York Ship Building Company, who also advanced funds for Shearer's Geneva expedition.

The contract for Shearer's services was verbal and not written, he said. "You are a business man, do you often make oral contracts?" asked Chairman Shortridge.

"Not often," Wakeman replied, "but it is not unusual."

No record of contract
The records of his office would not reveal any transaction with Shearer. It was brought out, Wakeman's part of the Shearer salary was paid in cash through Henry Hunter, attorney for the Atlantic Coast Ship Builders Association. The check for the cash was drawn in Hunter's name.

Pressed by the chairman for an explanation of this procedure, Wakeman said:

"I regarded it as a personal transaction of my own on behalf of my company between myself through Mr. Hunter to Mr. Shearer."

Wakeman also revealed Shearer had been employed in December, 1926, before the Geneva Conference. "To help the U. S. Shipping Board in reference to merchant marine matters."

This "help," he explained was to "write statements for the press, make speeches and supplement the work of the shipping board." For this Shearer received $7500, he said, of which Wakeman paid $2500. This payment also was sent to Hunter.

The Geneva reportorial employment was given Shearer at a meeting of the ship builders in the New York office of Hunter, Wakeman continued. There were present Wakeman, Hunter, Bardo and Frederick P. Palen, Newport News Ship Building Company.

Perjury Charges In Pantages Case Made
Los Angeles, Sept. 23—(UP)—As opposing attorneys neared completion of final arguments in the murder trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages to Deputy District Attorney James Costello revealed that he planned to arrest one defense witness on perjury charges.

Costello said the arrest would not be made until the close of the case, which should go to the jury late today or early tomorrow.

A man testified for the defense under oath that he saw the crash between Mrs. Pantages' car and that of Juro Rokumoto and we know that he did not," Costello declared.

"We have in our hands at this time enough evidence to warrant his arrest for perjury. We are still collecting evidence that shows he perjured himself in other statements in his testimony."

Costello said he was "convinced that the case reeked with falsities" and that several other defense witnesses were being investigated.

Mother, Daughter Suicide, Husband And Son To Prison

Wabash, Ind., Sept. 23—(AP)—An arson and blackmail plot in which an entire family is alleged to have participated has culminated in the suicide of the mother and a daughter and prison sentences for the father and son.

Mrs. Charles Keaffaber, 47, and her daughter Helen, 24, were found dead in their farm home near Roann yesterday. They had taken poison.

The daughter had confessed to county officers last week that she was the writer of unsigned letters to several persons in this vicinity threatening destruction of their property unless restitution was made for fancied wrongs.

The husband and father of the family, Charles Keaffaber, 46, and the son, Roy, 25, are held in jail here under prison sentences of one to ten years each. The father and son have pleaded guilty to setting fire to a sawmill at Akron Ind., last month and a farm building near here two years ago. Officers had planned to remove the father to prison and the son to the reformatory this week but will delay the removal in order to permit them to attend a double funeral for Mrs. Keaffaber and her daughter.

Mrs. Keaffaber was not implicated in the plot by other members of the family but authorities believe she had knowledge of their actions.

SWEET GRASS—

It is not showy. You might pass it by. Unseeing, half a hundred times maybe. Maine sweet grass, where the dunsalt marshes lie Netted with silver creeks that meet the sea. Gather a handful here, toss it aside; You will not miss it, with all else at hand: Ocean, white sands, gulls and an ebbing tide. And beauty filling sky and sea and land.

The day will come when these shall be forgot. Then some small shop, a bit of basketry—A fragrance! And the memory falters not. But cries, with Greeks of old, "The Sea, the Sea!" Dear, simple grass our early red men knew. What memories of Maine come back, with you!

Randall-Shilling Wedding Saturday

Miss Dorothy Marie Randall, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Randall, 508 Nachusa avenue, was united in marriage to Elmer E. Schilling of Rockford Saturday evening at 7:30 at St. Paul's Lutheran parsonage, by the pastor, Rev. L. W. Walter, in the presence of the bride's parents. The young people were attended by Miss Ruth Lindsey of this city as maid of honor, and Merrill Gilbert of Rockford, as best man. The bride was attractively gowned in a brown point frock with hat and accessories to match and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and baby breath. The maid of honor wore a brown canton crepe dress. Mrs. Schilling is a very popular Dixon girl, a graduate of the Dixon High school of 1928, and for the past few months has been in training at the Dixon Public Hospital as a nurse. Mr. Schilling holds a prominent position with the J. I. Case Co. in Rockford. The newlyweds left Sunday afternoon on a brief honeymoon trip. They will make their future home in Rockford where the bridegroom has an apartment in readiness. A host of friends extend to this young couple best wishes for happiness.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Roy Randall entertained at a dinner in honor of the bride and bridegroom, the table being beautifully decorated in cut flowers and ferns. The guests included Merrill Gilbert of Rockford; Miss Ruth Lindsey, Dixon; Cecil Ikes, Ingersoll, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Christianson, Dixon, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Schilling of Rockford.

NEW YORK-PARIS FASHIONS

THE new hats are arriving from Paris by the tens and twenties and one sad fact must be admitted immediately. The smartest ones are terribly, terribly hard to wear. They have a way of making frightful demands on the average face and require the most meticulous attention to details of make-up and grooming. Not that these are in any way new demands of the well-dressed appearance but just wait until you try on one of Reboux's or Talbot's new hats and you'll see what we mean. Anyway, here they are, so make the best of them. The little bandana affair is from Maria Guy and is made of panne velvet, the new rayon velvet, that is so much used for both frocks and wraps as well as hats. The tiny tight turban is an Agnes creation of a tweed-like fabric in multi-color. The last is from Reboux and is of heavy satin. They all cover the ears and back of the head and they all show, in common with the other Paris hats of the new season, the forehead in its entirety. Lovely and picturesque, if luck is with you on forehead, but see that the rest of your costume is in harmony, too.

Florence Trumbull Bride John Coolidge

BY BOYD LEWIS
United Press Staff Correspondent
Plainville, Conn., Sept. 23.—(UP)—At 4 P. M. today Florence Trumbull becomes Mrs. John Coolidge, promising to "love, comfort and honor" her husband, but not to obey him. Shortly after sunrise people began flying, walking, riding trains and motoring along the roads to Plainville to see the son and daughter of two of New England's most distinguished families united in marriage. Former President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge, parents of the bridegroom, will arrive by motor from Northampton shortly after luncheon. Irving G. Stevens, caretaker of the Trumbull estate in Maine, arrived in a Connecticut National Guard plane. Of the hundreds who gathered here, about 82 received permission to file into the First Congregational Church for the ceremony. It is such a wedding as Miss Trumbull chose, for she perhaps could have been married in the White House. Weather conditions for the bridal day were ideal. A warm sun shone out of a cloudless sky. Rain had been feared over the week-end.

John and Florence arose early and took a stroll in the garden after breakfast. They examined the lawn tents and nooks where 400 guests will be entertained at a reception after the wedding.

The service will be simple and conventional; once more a bride will pace the aisles to the Lohengrin wedding march and before it is over the orchestra will play, "Oh, Promise Me."

Three detectives walked the halls of the Trumbull mansion today for there are $10,000 worth of wedding presents there, filling two rooms and spilling into another one.

Most of the guests are relatives of the Coolidge and Trumbull families, and they are ready to help receive the 400 guests who have been invited to a reception in the large tent pitched on the Trumbull estate.

Young Coolidge fidgeted today, nervously seeking the aid and comfort of Stephan Brown of Northampton, Mass., who was his roommate at Amherst and who is his best man.

As the young couple attended church yesterday, it was apparent that Miss Trumbull was the usual radiant bride, unworried by the prospect of walking down a church aisle in a white dress. She even broke through the elaborate plans away from her when she admitted to the sidewalk in front of the church that she preferred to "be married among her own people," rather than in the White House.

Where the honeymoon will be was conjectured. It was generally believed a motor trip would be taken. Coolidge obtained a two-week leave from the New Haven Railroad office where he is a clerk.

Miss Trumbull will be attended by her younger sister Jean and four bridesmaids—Miss Esther Trumbull, a cousin; Miss Dorothy Clark, another cousin; Mrs. Philip Moorehouse of New York; and Miss Dorothy Rogers of Pittsburgh, Pa., the latter two having been classmates of the bride at Mt. Holyoke College. Just for old time's sake, the organist will play the Mt. Holyoke vespers hymn during the seven and a half minute ceremony.

After the honeymoon the couple will live in a four and a half room apartment in Westville, a suburb of New Haven, and spend the first year trying to find some place to put $10,000 worth of wedding presents.

Birthday Party Saturday Enjoyed

HOOVER PLEDGES DRY CAPITAL IN REPLY TO HOWELL

Asks Senator To Prove Statements Made In Senate Debate

BY LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Washington, Sept. 23.—(UP)—The capital's speak-easy masters took to the cyclone cellar today to watch through the periscope for the first move of Washington officials to make the city a model for the country in the matter of prohibition enforcement.

President Hoover's declaration Washington should show the way was in answer to charges by Senator Howell, Republican, that bootlegging thrived in the shadow of the Capitol.

Howell's challenge to the President to clean up the Capital by vigorous application of his appointive power and the White House answer were quickly followed by a demand from Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, that the government appropriate more money for dry law work and fight rum runners with machine guns and riot rifles.

Wilson's Suggestions
Wilson, who recently advocated calling out the Marines to enforce prohibition, contended the government has insufficient men to enforce the law, that it is too timid to use machine guns and riot rifles, that its boats are too slow to cope with liquor smuggling craft and that aircraft to stop border activities must be provided.

Howell suggested the Chief Executive call in a group of secret service operatives and launch them upon an extensive investigation of the Capital's centers of gaiety and nightlife. The President, however, apparently has no such intention.

"Senator Howell's statement that the prohibition law is not being enforced in the District of Columbia," the White House asserted, "seriously impugns the good faith and capacity of Commissioner Dougherty, in charge of police. Superintendent of Police Pratt, District Attorney Rover and Prohibition Agent William Elandford.

"The President is glad the Senator has raised the question. He is confident that the Senator would not make these charges unless they were based upon definite facts, with time and place; and if he will lay any such information before the Department of Justice, the President will have the matters vigorously investigated for it is the intention not only to secure the fullest enforcement in the district possible under the organization of enforcement agencies as provided by law, but to make it a model in the country. Commissioner Procter L. Dougherty, president of the Board of District Commissioners, declared he would present the entire matter to a special meeting today.

No Specific Charges
Howell declared, after publication of the White House statement, he had no specific charges against any district official. His remarks on enforcement were a mere digression in his tariff debate, he explained. It was not his intention to criticize the President.

Linked with Howell's charges against the District officials, was the declaration that every ounce of diplomatic liquor which enters the Capital comes into the country in flagrant violation of the law. The diplomats should be prosecuted, he said.

The President did not allude to this portion of Howell's statement. Soon after inauguration the White House expressed the view that "drives" and sensational enforcement tactics were taboo. The most effective enforcement policy, it was stated officially, was one of conscientious day-to-day activity.

IN THIRTEENTH DIST.
Chicago, Sept. 23.—(UP)—A renewed drive to root out the bootleggers in the thirteenth District, particularly Chicago and Cook County, will be made in the immediate future with federal, state, county and city authorities joining forces, according to E. C. Yellowley, head of prohibition enforcement here.

The Thirteenth District comprises Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin. Yellowley just returned from Washington where he conferred with Prohibition Commissioner Doran and other officials.

Yellowley said the prohibition enforcement department is determined to dry up this area and to further that end the enforcement force here will be built up considerably. He said he had been instructed to confine his activities entirely to the local situation, and to refrain from lending men to other cities in the area.

All branches of enforcement—federal, state, city or county—will be joined harmoniously in the new drive, Yellowley said, and will cooperate in all activities.

Body of Rich Woman, Suicide, Is Found

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 23.—(UP)—Four hunters discovered the body of Mrs. Mae Ohlendorf, wealthy Rockford woman, in the Rock River Sunday night. She disappeared a week ago. Despondency over ill health is believed to have caused her to end her life.

President Wilson appointed two negroes to federal offices during his first term which were confirmed by the Senate.

Brigham Young, the famous Mormon leader, had 56 children.

Gridiron News Gathered About Training Camps

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Scattered firing all along the football line was heard over the week-end but not until next Saturday will the battle be on in earnest.

As opposed to the three-score teams from one coast to the other that opened the season last Saturday the east alone will send close to 100 squads into the fray at the end of this week.

Most of this coming Saturday's contests are that in name only. Here and there in the schedule are the makings of a close contest but for the most part the program calls for tune-up affairs, with the big colleges tuning up at the expense of the little ones. Out of these so-called tune-up games have come some startling reversals before a palpitating public reads the Sunday newspapers again.

Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Lafayette, among others, will not open the campaign until Oct. 5, but they're exceptions to a general rule. Every other big college on the Atlantic seaboard will see action.

West Virginia's Mountaineers, who began the season with a 16-0 victory over West Virginia Wesleyan on Saturday, take on Davis and Elkins with the memory of a 7-0 beating last year to stir them to their best efforts.

Four of the other members of the "Big Four," Pittsburgh, with a potential championship team, meets Waynesburg; Carnegie Tech, without Howard Harpster to guide them, takes on Bethany at Wheeling, W. Va.; and Washington and Jefferson meets an intersectional foe in Ohio at Washington, Pa.

Pennsylvania looks for a score against Franklin and Marshall approximating the 46-0 count of last year. The Nittany Lions of Penn State are to grapple with Niagara.

In the Metropolitan district, Columbia meets Middlebury, Fordham takes a workout against Westminster, and New York University expects no more than a tune-up with Vermont.

While the Army is doing its best to roll up a score against Boston University at West Point, the Navy meeting Denison, hopes for better luck in its opening game than it had last fall. The midshipmen opened the season last year by losing to Davis and Elkins and then to Boston College and Notre Dame as well.

In New England Norwich would like to score again this year against Dartmouth, but the chances are not particularly favorable for that laudable ambition. Boston College, unbeaten last year, starts off against Catholic, which succumbed, 38-6 in 1928.

Gil Dobie would breathe easier if his Cornell team beats Clarkson by more than three touchdowns and Syracuse hopes to better the 14-6 score of last year with Hobart. This year's contest is to be played at night. Colgate is matched with St. Lawrence.

Georgetown opens against Mt. St. Mary's while Rutgers is tackling Providence and Lehigh is locking horns with Johns Hopkins.

IN WESTERN CONFERENCE
Chicago, Sept. 23.—(AP)—What two weeks of practice and planning have produced will be learned Saturday by four Big Ten coaches and their teams.

Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin and Iowa will get the jump on the other six members of the conference, with the Wolverines and Hoosiers engaging in doubleheaders.

Coach Harry Kipke of Michigan will send teams against Albion College and Mt. Union of Alliance, O., and Pat Page will spend the week organizing to thwart invasions by Washburn College's little giants, and Ohio University at Athens, O.

Wisconsin's opening engagement will be with South Dakota State, on the Badger's gridiron, and Iowa will be host to Carroll College of Waukegan, Wis. The Badgers, rated as a front rank challenger for the Big Ten title, are preparing not only for South Dakota, but are eyeing the first invasion of an eastern team Oct. 5, when Colgate will play on Camp Randall Stadium.

News of Dixon Chamber Commerce

By SEC. JNO. H. BYERS

The Chamber of Commerce takes pleasure in announcing to the general public that the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company will run a "Back Home" excursion from Chicago to points in Illinois and Iowa, and other states, over Sunday, Sept. 29. The tickets go on sale as early as Friday, Sept. 27 and will give two full days at destination.

The fares are unusually attractive and range from one to a cent and quarter a mile, depending on the distance, and it is like receiving a dollar's worth of transportation for about 30 cents.

Dixon people having relatives and friends in Chicago should write to them and tell them to take advantage of this excursion and come "back home" for a Sunday dinner and a few days' visit.

What our congressional guests say about our "Waterway" banquet held last Thursday night.

Congressman W. E. Hull—"Say for me that it was the best banquet I have attended on my entire trip." Congressman W. R. Johnson—"Your Chamber of Commerce and your friends did themselves proud in their endeavor to get the "Waterway" problem before your people. I was highly pleased with the meeting."

Congressman John T. Buckbee—"Please convey my appreciation to the officers and members of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce for the splendid time you gave me last evening. Really it was one of the best Waterway Meetings that I have ever attended and should go a long way toward bringing the desired end for this section of Illinois."

The above expressions of appreciation came to us by letter after the congressmen reached their homes.

Now, let's put the Second Annual Fall Festival over. Let us put our shoulders to the affair and make it a great success. All committees are working. A delegation from Dixon attended the Fall Festival at Polo last Friday to get ideas. A delegation will visit the Festival at Clinton, Ia., this week. The Booster committee has its plans about completed.

King of Panhandlers Dead of Starvation

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(UP)—"State Street Johnny," the best beggar who ever bummed a dime on Chicago's "main street," is dead at 76, a victim of the machine age.

Baldy the Eagle, Johnny's chum since the time of the Chicago fire, pronounced his epitaph today when he learned the diminutive king of the panhandlers had died of starvation in an abandoned building on his old beat.

"It was the automobiles that killed him," sighed the Eagle, mopping his bald spot and stuffing into his pocket a greasy, dog-eared volume by Karl Marx. "Killed him just the same as if he had been run down by one of the stinking things."

"Jimmy was the aristocrat of beggars. He wouldn't take anything from the welfare societies. He bragged he only panhandled millionaires—and he knew every one of them in town."

"In the old days they all knew State Street Johnny, too. He was a psychologist—had just the right manner to make them feel even richer—and put them in a mood to give him two bits or maybe a dollar."

"But all the rich folks are in a hurry now. They dash around in their motor cars instead of sauntering leisurely past old Johnny. He didn't have a chance."

"Dead at 76, just when age was lending him a new appeal! Another artist crushed by the march of progress. That's what he was."

STIFF COMPETITION

Texarkana, Texas.—George M. Orr, 77, and J. S. Draper, 79, are old justices of the peace who are reaping benefits from the Texas marriage law which says that couples must give three days' notice before marrying. The two old fellows line up on different sides of the courthouse and watch for matrimony-bound couples. There is a keen rivalry between them.

TO SPEND 'RICH' WOMAN'S WEALTH SOLVING DEATH

Brothers of "Empress of World" Insist She Was Murdered

Suisun, Calif., Sept. 23.—(UP)—With test tubes and microscopes, criminologists and post mortem experts were seeking today to solve the mystery of the death of Irene Wolf-skill 57, wealthy "Empress of the World," whose body was found near Wooden Valley Creek Thursday.

Dr. A. A. Berger, autopsy expert, Dr. A. M. Moody, pathologist and E. O. Heinrich, a noted detective, came here Sunday and gathered evidence. Heinrich, given articles of clothing and samples of Miss Wolfskill's writing, said he would await a report from the doctors, expected within three days.

Many conflicting bits of information were being showered upon Sheriff Jack Thornton, who is in charge of investigations with almost unlimited financial resources at his command. The "Empress" had possessions worth nearly a million dollars, and the wealth will be divided between two brothers, Matt and Ney Wolfskill, under terms of the will by which she obtained it. The brothers are ready to spend it all to find out the cause of death, Ney insisting she was kidnapped and murdered.

Mrs. Minnie Clark of Napa reported that while she was driving near there on July 14, when the disappearance of Miss Wolfskill was reported, she had seen a gray-haired woman fighting with two men in an automobile.

Two ranchers, Charles Stewart and Ed McDonald, said that two weeks after the spinster vanished they had seen a woman alone in a cornfield near Wooden Valley Creek. They were not certain concerning her appearance but their stories tended to bolster the hypothesis that the victim wandered through her mythical empire until she dropped dead from hunger and exhaustion.

Hope For Safety of Explorers Revived

The Pas, Man., Sept. 23.—(UP)—Receipt of a message from E. G. Longley, airplane mechanic in the employ of Col. C. D. H. McAlpine, lost geologist-explorer, that he had arrived at Athabasca, Alta., raised hope today that McAlpine and his four companions might be safe.

J. A. McDougall of the Western Canada Airways, who is in charge of a search for the missing party, expressed doubt, however, that Longley had been a passenger in either of the McAlpine planes when they left Coronation Bay on the Arctic Ocean more than a week ago. How the mechanic could have reached Athabasca overland in so short a time was not explained.

During excavation work on the bank of the River Aire in England, traces of an ancient bridge, believed to be 400 years old, were discovered.

EARL MASTRO TO FACE REAL TEST AGAINST ZORILLA

Featherweights' Fight In Milwaukee This Eve Holds Fans

BY BERT DEMBY
United Press Staff Correspondent

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 23—(UP)—Young Earl Mastro, who throws more gloves than any 126 pounder the middle-west has seen in years, tonight will attempt to step up another rung on the ladder which he hopes will carry him to the featherweight championship.

He will meet the rough, tough Santiago Zorilla, who rather than being a stepping stone for the game little Chicagoan, proposes to be a stumbling block.

Just how Mastro will fare is a problem. Zorilla, a great little boxer, has won from such men as Ignacio Fernandez, Bud Taylor and Joey Sanigor, and Mastro certainly has not picked out a "setup."

The fight promises to be an affair in which the man who can throw the most gloves the faster will win. There is no denying that each of the contestants is fast.

Mastro has beaten Fidel Labarba, Eddie Shea, Kid Francis, Babe Ruth and Willie Mitchell, among others. The victory which Earl scored over Shea really stamped him as a contender among the featherweights.

Shea was touted around Chicago as the coming featherweight champion but Mastro beat him handily and in doing so he demonstrated that the training which those little youngsters who come up on the west side of the Windy City learn early to use their fists in the right way.

Sam Pian, Mastro's manager, said after the first time he saw Earl: "There's a kid who learned how to hit while he was becoming champion of his block, all I'll have to do now's teach him how to box."

Mastro has learned how to box and doubtless that training will stand him in good stead tonight for Zorilla is no slouch at the scientific game. The fact that Zorilla outboxed Bud Taylor is evidence that Mastro will be up against some boxing ability tonight.

Tonight's fight is the first since the "decision law" became effective in Wisconsin but it too will be a no-decision affair, with the newspapers rendering the verdict.

The State Boxing Commission recently decided that after October 1, decisions will be in the hands of the referee.

The commission also ruled that "if after a trial the referee decision proves unpopular, it will be supplanted by a referee and two judges decision plan."

Mastro ruled a slight favorite today. There was an inclination to believe that Zorilla "is not the fighter he used to be" and for that reason it was possible to get odds of 8-5 on the little Chicagoan.

Big-hearted baseball magnates are about to begin payment to the fiduciary for a two weeks' dance through open dates toward two crowded week-ends which may or may not entice sufficient fans to the parks to pay the ushers. The aggregate at anywhere between $250,000 and $300,000.

If anything can bring a magnate to his senses, it is a deficit, and for this reason alone it may be authoritatively stated that the schedules for 1930 will make use of the time-saving opportunities offered by Sunday baseball in Boston. With a few regularly scheduled double-headers placed upon the chart for Philadelphia, a full week could easily be cut from the 1929 program, which covered 25 weeks or 174 playing days.

The poor business being transacted at the turnstiles at this moment is largely due, of course, to the two run-away races, about which the magnates can do nothing. But if a race is going to be lopsided anyhow, the club-owners certainly will lose less by moving toward the finish with a minimum of open dates.

After attracting some 500 fans to their park one day last week, the Yankees did manage to muster 20,000 clients on the banks of the Harlem with a bargain bill yesterday. But E. G. Barrow would sell the rest of his home dates from now until October 6 at strictly bargain prices. The double-header was divided, the White Sox winning the opener by 7 to 4, and the Yanks the nightcap by 3 to 1. Red Faber outpitched Herb Pennock, but Roy Sherid turned the tables on Al Thomas.

At the end of the game Charlie O'Leary excused seven players for the rest of the season with full pay, the Messrs. Pennock, Hoyt, Van Pelt, Meusel, Grabowski and Jorgensen.

Eliot Hogsett, the $40,000 Detroit recruit from Montreal, made his first home start, and southpawed the Tigers to a 5 to 0 victory over Sammy Gray and the Browns. St. Louis drove only three safe hits to the outfield.

Wesley Ferrell pitched the Indians to a 7 to 4 victory over the Red Sox in ten innings. Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg all had a hand in a game at Washington which the Senators won from the Athletics by 7 to 6 in ten rounds. It was the fourth Senatorial triumph over the Macks in 20 games this season.

Dazzy Vance featured the National League afternoon with a fine game against St. Louis, which he won by 7 to 2, but the Cards rallied in the nightcap, a 4 to 0 victory for St. Louis.

Rogers Hornsby entertained the Chicago fans with his thirty-eighth home run, but the Giants shaded the Cubs by 5 to 4 in the final game of the series. Cincinnati outpointed Philadelphia by 3 to 2 in ten innings just prior to Jack Hendricks' announcement of his resignation, effective on October 6.

HEAVYWEIGHTS FEATURE THIS WEEK'S BATTLES

Two Tons of Them Matched Up For Scraps in Eastern Rings

New York, Sept. 23—(AP)—Two tons of heavyweights will be on display at Ebbets Field and the Yankee Stadium during the next four days. Starting with Victorio Campolo, ten round bout, with Phil Scott, champion of England, at Ebbets Field tonight, the week's climactic encounter will bring together Tommy Loughran, erstwhile ruler of the light heavyweights, and Jack Sharkey of Boston in a 15-round bout at the Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

These two heavyweight shows have overshadowed the featherweight championship battle at Hartford tonight between Andre Routis of France and Bat Battalino. Campolo, an entrained performer as yet, can punch with any of the current heavyweights. Largely because of the wallop in his right hand he has been made a 7.5 favorite over Scott, one of the cleverest boxers in his division. After a mediocre exhibition against Arthur Dekuh whom he defeated on a foul, Campolo astonished ringside critics with a smashing victory over Tom Heeney, the New Zealand blacksmith.

In two other ten rounders, Paul Swiderski of Syracuse meets Lou Barba of New York, and Ernie Schaaf of Boston clashes with Jack Renault, the French-Canadian.

For no apparent reason, Sharkey has been made a slight favorite over Loughran in their Yankee Stadium tangle.

On the preliminary card is a 10-rounder between Jimmy Maloney, Boston, and Armand Emanuel, California, and another between Tom Heeney and George Hoffman of New York. Jack Gagnon, Boston, tangles with Lou Barba, New York, in a six rounder.

At Chicago on Friday night, Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, meets Eddie Mack of Denver, in the feature ten rounder. Benny Bass, Philadelphia junior lightweight, faces Johnny Datto Cleveland, in the semi-windup.

At Philadelphia tomorrow night George Courtney, Oklahoma, and Billy Jones, Philadelphia, light heavyweights, battle it out over a ten round route.

SPORT SLANTS

BY UNITED PRESS
Hartford, Conn.—The featherweight championship of the world is at stake tonight, when Andre Routis of France, who has held the title for more than a year, meets Bat Battalino of Hartford.

An anticipated attendance of 30,000 and the fact that Routis has been guaranteed $50,000 for the fight, have led to a popular belief that the title is due to change hands. Joe Jacobs, manager of Routis, is of the opinion that Routis will win, despite a report that this same Jacobs has obtained an interest in Battalino. The fight will be the first title event in Connecticut for several years.

Hamilton, Ont.—Miss Virginia Wilson sets out today to defend her title in the Canadian Women's Open golf championship, a sort of prelude to the American National tournament which will start at Detroit next week.

The Chicago girl will have plenty of competition, for the field numbers 111, including Miss Glenna Collett, now a resident of California. Miss Collett has twice won the Canadian championship. Miss Helen Hicks of New York is among the entrants.

New York—The 1930 Open Golf championship of the United States will be played at the Interlachen Club Minneapolis Minn. July 10-11-12 the U. S. G. A. announced today. The British Open Golf championship starts June 16.

Forest Hills N. J.—The professional tennis championship starts today at the West End courts. "Vinnie" Richards, Karel Kozeluh and a number of others who have turned their efforts on the courts towards direct profits are to be found in action. Wallace Johnson, former amateur doubles champion will make his debut as a professional.

Madison, Wis.—Red Grange and his Chicago Bears opened the National Professional League football season here yesterday, defeating Herb Joesting and the Minneapolis Marines, 19 to 6, before the biggest crowd ever to see any athletic event in Madison except a University contest.

Why is it that the big professional stars of golf go out on such scoring sprees as they have been enjoying this season in everything except the national open?

Tommy Armour, the Black Scot was tied for fifth with 297 in the open and Leo Diegel for eighth with 301, yet Leo romped through the Canadian open with a card of 274 for 72 holes, three strokes better than Tommy, who bagged the western open with the record-breaking figure of 273 for the long route.

For one thing the open is played usually over as rugged a test of golf as the U. S. G. A. can locate. Armour won the U. S. open in 1927 at Oakland, one of the toughest courses on which the event has ever been played and the only one that has sand-bagged the renowned Bobby

Jones. Yet neither the Black Scot nor any of his professional mates could stop the Georgia amateur at Winged Foot, where Bobby was the only player in the field to break 70. He did it twice.

"There is greater strain on any contender in the national open," says Gene Sarazen, champion in 1922 and within a stroke or two of the top several times since then. "It gets the best of them."

There is, as Gene suggests, considerable more tension for any "pro" knowing that victory means upward of $50,000 for the ensuing year and that his chances, in a big field, depend on a minimum of mistakes. In this respect Jones has at least a mental advantage over most professionals but no "pro" will take anything away from the achievements of the famous amateur on that account. No golfer ever came through under greater competitive strain than Jones when, after slipping, he rammed home a 12-foot, curling putt to save himself on the home green at Winged Foot.

In the Canadian and western open tournaments, Armour was under 70 in six out of eight rounds. His 69-69-70-69 was not good enough to win the Dominion event, where Diegel shot 70-67-71-66 but at Milwaukee, Armour took no chances when he scored 65-71-69-68 to finish eight strokes in front of Horton Smith for first money.

Figure it out. Armour played 144 holes in 26 under even fours, one of the greatest streaks of a year that has seen Horton Smith, Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones and Leo Diegel also playing some of the finest golf in their careers.

Cold-blooded accurate with his irons and in any crisis, Armour is a great competitor. The war-scarred Scot, much as Jones did this year, sank a long putt to tie Harry Cooper in 1927 and then beat "Light Horse Harry" in the play-off.

CUBS HAVE FIVE DAYS TO REGAIN LOST OFFENSIVE

Have Been Battered by Opponents Since Pennant Was Won

Chicago, Sept. 23—(AP)—Considerably battered and mistreated since the National League pennant became theirs the Cubs today had five days during which to pull themselves together for the finish of their season, schedule and the world title struggle against the Philadelphia Athletics.

The exhibitions of Charlie Root and Guy Bush in the two final contests with the Giants showed them to be in need of something. If it is rest five days are available due to the break in the schedule, although Joe McCarthy will take his stand to Aurora, Ill., Wednesday for an exhibition game with a semi-pro team. Regular practice sessions will be held on the other days, except for those whom complete idleness will help to regain form.

The return yesterday to the lineup of Gabby Hartnett, ranked as the leading catcher of the senior league last season, who has been kept out of action by an ailing throwing arm in this year, brought a measure of encouragement. Hartnett was not called upon to try his arm on base stealers, but in an attempt to snipe a runner off third base, Hartnett demonstrated that the injured member has not recovered.

Captain Charlie Grimm will be back on first base when the Cubs start a six-game series with the Cincinnati Reds Saturday. The splint has been removed from his left hand which was injured more than a month ago, and he is ready to take over his job, which has been handled by Clarence Blair and Charlie Tolson.

Estimates on the probable season attendance at Wrigley Field indicate the Cubs will be owner of a new record for both major leagues. Unofficial figures say the Cubs already have performed before more than 1,200,000 fans with three games yet to be played in the home park. The champions are scheduled to meet the Reds here next Saturday and Sunday, followed by four contests in Cincinnati, starting October 2. The finale of the season will be played at Wrigley Field against the Pirates October 6.

THE CALL OF THE OUTDOORS

The time worn query of "Why does a hen cross the road?" at last has been relegated to oblivion. For, if the question were asked today the answer would be, "They don't." The hens have become sophisticated. They now jump or fly to the near side of the road at the bank of an auto horn as spontaneously as does the average pedestrian. Even in the most rural of rural localities they are as "city broke" when automobiles are approaching as are the stray dogs of the city slums.

As a result of this tendency, farmers' losses are lessened in proportion to the opportunity of motorists to "sheet a chicken" with their front wheels or bumpers. Having less opportunity—or temptation—motorists have begun to think about a new principle of fair play with reference to killing hens, or pigs, or product of the farm which may stray into the highways. Thus "Good Outdoor Manners" which are being taught so assiduously by chapters of the Isaac Walton League to fishermen, hunters and campers, have been extended to include respect for the property of others.

Good manners are being taught everywhere throughout the country by striking signs posted on crossroads corners, or on prominent trees in wooded areas, especial activity in this work being shown by chapters of the League in these days when the autumn colors are even more alluring to motorists than summer greens.

Special prominence is being given at this season to warnings to tourists and campers against the perils of dropping matches and lighted cigarettes from cars into the dry grass, or leaves along the roadside, or in leaving embers of a campfire. Such campaigns have been conducted for the last five or six years.

Official announcements of the U. S. Forest Service show that fewer forest fires are started by careless campers than ever before. While the Isaac Walton League does not claim all the credit for this condition, its persistent campaign of education conducted by chapters throughout the United States has aroused a spirit of caution in the American people not hitherto existing.

As "biddy" herself has acquired a watchfulness that has destroyed her former propensity for beating it across the road instead of hitting for the nearest haven of safety when she hears a horn honking, so the public is playing "Safety First" with our forests and wild life.

Modernizing the Home Benefits the Entire Family

CHARACTER IMPROVES WITH MODERNIZATION

Both Children and Grown-ups Get Benefit

Social welfare workers who call on a varied number of homes and come in contact with a wide range of persons assert that they can tell the character of the family they are visiting by the appearance of the home. The curtains on the windows even serve as an index to character.

Even a casual investigation proves that there is more than a grain of truth in this statement.

The character of the family does shine out through the home and the general type of persons can usually be told by the house they live in.

The honest, hard-working man may be living in a poorer neighborhood, but his home is spic and span. It is as clean as soap and water will make it, and outside a few flowers and a well trimmed lawn speak of pride of possession.

Home an Index of Character

The type of house one lives in is often an index to the character of the owner. The man who lives in a drab, depressing, gloomy house is very often a man who is unprogressive and backward in a business way. He is not forging ahead, but rather is slipping or standing still.

On the other hand, the man who lives in a house that is modern in appearance, with a well cared for lawn, if often a man who is progressive and on his toes in a business way.

The environment in which a person lives plays its part in moulding character. If that environment is cheerful, if the house he lives in is smartly up-to-date, if the neighborhood is filled with houses that speak of modern architecture, the influence upon the owner is such that he responds most satisfactorily from a material standpoint.

The Whole Family Benefits

Not only the man of the house, but the whole family benefits by these pleasant surroundings. Environment plays an important part in the life of the child. Their growing characters are swayed by the atmosphere in which they live. The parents have a duty to perform and the keeping of a pleasant, cheerful home is an important factor in moulding the character of their children.

The influence of modernization of the lives of the occupants of a house cannot be estimated by tangible means. It is not possible to state definitely that the remodeling of a house is going to perform a certain part in improving the character and financial standing of the owner.

And yet an influence for good is there. It is silently and persistently working for the betterment of the family.

Community Also Improved

Just as the improvement in the home is influencing the family, so in turn is the modernizing of a house doing a certain amount of good for the community. In the last analysis a city is but a collection of homes and anything that improves a part is working for the good of the whole.

Modernizing lifts up a city out of its ordinary commonplace position and transforms it into a live progressive community, filled with busy, hustling collection of individuals.

Modernizing plays a definite part not only in moulding the characters of the home owner and his family, but also in boosting the community in which the owner lives.

USE REFRIGERATOR

THE YEAR ROUND

Food to be kept in good condition must be maintained in a temperature of 50 degrees or lower. Scientist have proved that food, when allowed to remain in a temperature above that figure, decays quickly and bacteria multiplies 400 times more rapidly than when kept in a temperature below 50 degrees which is the danger line of food deterioration.

Proper refrigeration will maintain food in good condition while it is waiting to be used.

Yet strange as it may seem throughout the United States only 34.6 per cent of homes are equipped with refrigerators of any kind. Two-thirds of the homes in the United States have no adequate form of refrigeration.

Contrast the New With the Old

Sweeping exterior lines add charm to this home. Once it was the unlovely house pictured at the right. Here again modernization proves its case.

Awnings Also Have Decorative Value

During the hot days of summer the use of awnings over the windows on the sunny side of the house enable the occupants of the house to keep more comfortable. Windows may be kept open to allow the cooling breezes to enter the rooms. Shades do not have to be lowered as the burning rays of the sun are prevented from fading the rugs, upholstery, wall paper or window draperies.

Utility has long been the prime consideration when awnings are discussed. Of late however the use of awnings as a distinct method of exterior decoration is growing in favor. Newer types of awnings have been devised that add a touch of the unique to the appearance of the house. Because of their decorative values, the awnings selected must be chosen with the general design and color scheme of the building in mind. The awning becomes an integral part of the building like the roof or the window trim. It must blend in to aid in carrying out the general decorative design.

ONCE ORDINARY HOUSE NOW DELIGHTFUL HOME

The casual passer-by would never suspect that the home to the left was built years ago when the Spanish-American War was a live topic of conversation. Its sweeping roof lines, pleasing arch over the garage, drive and quaint little stoop, all speak of modern architecture.

Yet this house was once the common-place dwelling illustrated below. These before and after pictures present forcefully the advantages of modernization in making the old home up-to-date.

Once an ordinary house, the kind found on any street in a residential neighborhood, now a delightful home unusual in its irregular lines and odd architectural touches. That's the story of this pleasant home.

The modernization of this house not only changed the exterior lines of the dwelling to such an extent that the house becomes almost unrecognizable but when so doing an extra room has been added by enclosing the old open front porch.

Across the front now appears a charming sun room lighted by two bays of windows. The main entrance to the house lies off this room. A narrow stoop—practically a step—leads down to the garage driveway which also serves as the walk leading to the public sidewalk. Such an arrangement as this saves the expense of a formal concrete walk and gives an unconventional touch which is in keeping with the atmosphere of the dwelling. A tiny shelter having a pitch roof, relieves the doorway of its bare look.

New Roof Lines

While basically the roof lines of the house have been changed very little, the extension of the face of the original gable to form a sweeping arch top serves to give the house a low, clinging effect. An archway over the drive, leading to the garage makes the appearance of the dwelling from the street an unusual one. The two windows on the second floor at the front have not been changed, but above them in the gable a ventilator has been added to give air to the attic, and also to aid the architectural effect.

On the right side of the house a dormer has been added with an opening containing two double hung windows. The lights in the upper sash have been divided into three panes as this effect tends to eliminate the bareness of one broad pane of glass.

New Sash Lights Dining Room

The old side door leading off the dining room has been enclosed, the small porch and overhead shelter eliminated, and in its stead a bay of three windows has been placed in the side wall to aid in lighting this important room. The dining room should always be well lighted as it is important that the meals of the family be eaten under the best of conditions. Environment plays an important part in dietetics and a well lighted dining room does it part toward promoting the health and well-being of the family.

The window off the kitchen has been changed, a new sash and trim being used to conform to the design of the dining room windows.

DR. ECKENER

BY HUGH ALLEN
Copyright, 1929, NEA Service, Inc.

The First Authorized Story of the Life of the Commander of the Zeppelins.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters

Dr. Hugo Eckener and Count Ferdinand Zeppelin first met as a result of criticism by Eckener of Zeppelin's theories regarding the practicability of motor-propelled balloons. Zeppelin invited Dr. Eckener to play chess with him, and between games they discussed dirigibles. Eckener, a student and writer, became more and more interested in Zeppelin's work, and when the latter lost most of his fortune and it appeared that experimentation might have to cease, owing to lack of funds, Dr. Eckener volunteered to endeavor to interest the public in his project through articles he would write for the Frankfurter Zeitung.

CHAPTER V.

Dr. Eckener was the world's first "back-seat driver" in an airship. In the summer of 1906, following his meeting with Count Zeppelin, he made his first flight in what he had formerly regarded as a cavalry officer's crazy machine. This initial flight left Dr. Eckener convinced that the airship had possibilities. Once convinced, he wanted to help with all his might, in every way he could. If writing articles were the means in which he could be of assistance, he would do that. He wrote with the vigor and conviction of a crusader. He wrote article after article. The manuscript on economic crises gathered dust in a forgotten corner of his desk. He was constantly about the Zeppelin plant, and went on more and more trial flights. Then he started "back-seat driving."

Young Ludwig Duerr, a shop man, and a builder, was then piloting the Zeppelin ship which crept hesitatingly through the sky over Lake Constance from time to time. He was a practical dirigible man. To him Dr. Eckener was merely a professor and writer. But from his place back of the controls where he sat with Count Zeppelin, the doctor was forever making suggestions. Perhaps he saw himself a boy again on the waters of the north. It was there that he learned the story of the winds, of the warnings that they carry to those who learn to listen, and of the word of assistance that they bring to those who can understand. And as the practical balloon man steered his craft, he would hear the voice of Dr. Eckener:

"Fly to the right of that cloud," or glimping a squally spot, "better go over that mist. It will be squally beneath it."

Finally young Duerr became a bit irritated one day over the criticisms of his recently acquired passenger. He protested to Count Zeppelin, adding:

"If this writing fellow knows so much about it, let him take the ship next time. That will stop his tongue."

"Terrific," said Eckener when the word came back to him.

Splendid. He would like nothing better.

The new skipper established his reputation on his first flight. When he had made suggestions he knew what he was talking about. None thereafter questioned his right or his ability to command. The good people of Plessburg would not have been surprised. For they knew Hugo Eckener as a sailor to whom the winds whispered of their ways.

Dr. Eckener was not one to be satisfied with merely writing about things and plotting trial flights. A more practical way of helping presented itself shortly.

The first hangar was built on pontoons on Lake Constance, on the theory that no matter in what direction the wind blew, the hangar could be headed into the wind so that a ship could enter or leave at any time. What wasn't fully taken into account was the fact that winds are capricious, changing direction and velocity without warning and that a landing crew in boats did not have the leverage in holding the ship that one would have on solid ground.

The floating hangar idea was presently to be given up as its difficulties were better understood. That the ships were taken in and out of the hangar successfully despite decidedly adverse conditions at times was largely due to Eckener. For he knew all about boats. The practical suggestions that he offered from time to time, his own skill and resourcefulness in directing the tug boats which serviced the ship, brought him his first practical task. He was put in charge of this phase of operations.

The scholar was coming out of his study, back into the world of action. Further expansion of his duties came with establishment of his ability as a pilot. There were no pilots, strictly speaking, in the early days. Different people directed various flights—engineers, sea captains.

One of the first engineers employed by Zeppelin had flatly refused to take command of one of the early ships. He had done his part when he built the ship, he said.

Zeppelin dismissed him on the spot. "You are certain that your designs are correct, that your calculations are right, that the ship will fly; and yet you are unwilling to trust yourself to it," he summed up the situation sternly. "How can you ever convince anyone else if you yourself are in doubt?"

Ludwig Duerr, who succeeded a little later, had no such hesitation. He had no special liking for command of a ship. But if no one better offered himself, he would fly it. Several men were tried out—steamship captains, balloon flyers, men of varied training and experience, and then came Eckener.

If there were any doubts in Count Zeppelin's mind as to the usefulness of his new associate, they were dissolved after he had justified his back seat driving. For a new art had to be created, a new technique in navigation; and this blue-eyed blond giant out of the north with his sailor's heritage and sailor's instinct was the man ideally fitted for the task.

It was a critical time for Count Zeppelin's project. Under favorable conditions, the ships had shown good life, controllability, and speed, but there would be plenty of bad weather sailing to be done. And the loss of a ship in a storm might finally destroy a renewed public confidence in airships. The hour had come when the project must go forward. The ships had been built. They waited to be flown.

The man was ready. At 41, Eckener had come into his vocation. The significance of the meeting in the garden was revealing itself. The scholar had left his study forever. The book would never be written. The hour called for a man, and the one man that Zeppelin might have searched the continent of Europe for was at hand, his tremendous energy, courage and imagination fully unleashed. The ship had found its skipper.

Alton Officials In Grand Jury Probe

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 21—(UP)—Investigation of prohibition violations at Alton by the United States grand jury here was reported today to have raised havoc with that city's law enforcing authorities yesterday. Charges that city officials and employees of Alton were members of the City Club, an Alton night club which was raided in July and three men arrested for alleged violation of the Federal dry law, resulted yesterday in the appearance of thirty Alton policemen before the grand jury here. More than fifty Alton residents jammed the corridors of the Federal court waiting to testify.

As a result of the absence of thirty policemen, Alton, it was said, was making the best of an unusual situation.

The city plumbing inspector was reported as driving the police ambulance and city councilmen as serving at policemen.

One hundred persons are involved in the investigations.

Vienna Prepares For Fascisti Troubles

BY ROBERT H. BEST
United Press Staff Correspondent
Vienna, Sept. 21—(UP)—Police made extensive preparations today to check any disorders that might develop during the big demonstration which the Fascisti of the Heimwehr organization intend to stage this evening in front of the old imperial palace.

Although the demonstration was reported as the forerunner of the long threatened Heimwehr "March on Vienna" scheduled for Sept. 29, many sections of the Austrian capital on awakening today, saw in the threats of the Austrian Fascisti, no cause for great anxiety.

HAVE DEATH MYSTERY

Beloit, Wis., Sept. 21—(UP)—Rock county authorities today began an investigation of the death of Merlin Michelson 26, whose body was found near the Milwaukee railroad tracks in Clinton early today.

The body was found 300 feet from the railroad crossing over highway No. 14, two side pockets and the right hip pocket of his trousers were pulled out, leading the sheriff to believe the man had been robbed. Michelson was known early in the evening for ten dollars and was found on the body. The body was not mangled as if struck by a train but undertakers found a large hole in the back of the head.

HONOR HIGH SCHOOLS

Washington, Sept. 21—(UP)—Designation of 30 institutions as honor high schools because of the high standard of military training and soldierly discipline maintained by their respective junior units of the reserve officers' training corps was announced by the war department today.

Designations was for the academic year of 1929. Among the honor schools were Harrison high school, Chicago; Morgan Park high school, Chicago; Nicholas Senn high school, Chicago; and Waukegan township high school, Waukegan, Ill.

PRESENT LABOR'S SIDE

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 21—(AP)—The workers' side of the extended and at times tempestuous hosiery strike at the Allen-A mills in Kenosha, Wis., was to be given to the Women's Trade Union League of Illinois and Wisconsin today by girl strikers and Henry Ohl, Jr., president of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor. The hosiery strike has produced much violence, including bombings, shooting, and sluggings, and has attracted nationwide attention.

MARK OLD PORTAGE

Chicago, Sept. 21—(UP)—The old Chicago portage over which Indians once carried their canoes from the DesPlaines to the Chicago river and which was traversed by Joliet and Marquette, and later by LaSalle, is to be preserved as a historic spot. A cabin resembling the trading post that stood there in 1673 is to be erected on the 95-acre tract and will house relics of the period, while the remainder of the land is to be restored to its primeval state, members of the Illinois forest preserve board said.

HOLD GIRL COMMUNISTS.
 Chicago, Sept. 21—(AP)—Two young girl members of the Young Communist League were held to grand jury today by U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on charges of entering government reservation for unlawful purposes. The girls, Sandy Willman, 18 and Ann Leggett, 19, were arrested at Fort Sheridan two weeks ago while distributing Communist literature among the soldiers.

COCKLE-BURR ADDICTS
 St. Louis, Sept. 21—(UP)—Two Glenwood, Ill., boys whose names are withheld, are in jail here after a runaway escapade that started from the gentle sport of putting cockle-burrs in the girls' hair at school.

After the cockle-burr episode the two boys stole a car in a nearby town. They were caught as they were attempting to drain gas from another machine.

GLY-CAS ENDED STOMACH AGONY OF MANY YEARS

"The First and Only Medicine to Actually Give Me Complete Relief," Grateful Man Declares.

"After 30 years of suffering from trouble, my first and only actually complete relief has come to me in this Gly-Cas." Mr. John Easterlin, 123 E. High St., Fostoria, Ohio, says in praise of this amazing new medical discovery.

MR. JOHN EASTERLIN.

"I had gone from place to place and spent hundreds of dollars and was told I had almost everything imaginable the matter with me." Mr. Easterlin continued. "Awful bloating and a rock-like feeling in my stomach kept me from many a night's sleep. I suffered from cramps and for 2 and 3 days at a time would go without eating. But after years of this suffering, Gly-Cas has brought me relief such as no other medicine I tried could give. I honestly haven't a single symptom of my former miserable stomach trouble now and eat anything I want without fear of after-effects. Why, I hadn't eaten fried potatoes for 20 years until the past few weeks, but I can eat them every day now and without any bother whatsoever. Surely Gly-Cas is a medicine that does all claimed for it and I will be glad to tell anyone what it has done for me."

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Sold Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters; Amboy, Aschenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And while they are drunken as drunks, they shall be drunk as stubble fully dry.—Nahum 1:10.

Man has evil as well as good qualities peculiar to himself. Drunkenness places him as much below the level of the brutes as reason elevates him above them.—Sir G. Sinclair.

ARCHBISHOP VERY ILL

Paris, Sept. 21—(UP)—Louis Ernest Cardinal Dubois, Archbishop of Paris, was gravely ill today and was believed to be dying. The last rites of the church were administered after an operation similar to the first operation recently performed on Raymond Poincare for prostate trouble.

The Cardinal suffered a relapse today and was slowly sinking.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

HELEN PAGE feels unhappy when her classmates accuse her of being in love with a handsome young man, LEONARD BRENT. But he represents all that she knows of home and family and she adores him blindly.

Brent changes all his plans for Helen's future after a chance meeting with a dying beggar, CHARLES OWENS NELLIN, who tells a strange story which Helen is able to corroborate to some extent by a visit to Yonkers.

On graduating, Helen reminds her guardian of his promise to reveal her parentage and is amazed when he informs her that she is heiress of a millionaire, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM, and that he promised her parents to take her to him when she was 18. They go to Yonkers and Brent introduces her to Cunningham as his granddaughter. He offers as proof the locket containing a picture of EVANGELINE CUNNINGHAM which he had taken from the dying Nellin.

Helen remains at Bramblewood while the lawyer investigates the story. Cunningham presents her with a car which she drives everywhere. One day she accidentally strikes a girl, EVA ENNIS, who has to be taken to the hospital. Eva's brother, ROBERT, upbraids Helen for her selfish recklessness and then, noting her unstrung condition, offers to drive her home. Cunningham receives him graciously and invites him to spend the evening. The young couple go for a canoe ride.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII

ONE of the things that Robert Ennis was ever to be grateful for was the fact that he did not kiss Helen at that moment.

He knew the desire, the urge that comes like an avalanche, sweeping all before it, disregarding restraint, taking no account of costs.

He knew it, and he mastered it. For one thought remained clear in his mind. This girl was not for him. His life was devoted to Eva. It was for her future that he was working. She depended upon him. And he could not lay a burdened future at the feet of a girl like Helen Brent, even had he dared to take her romantic rescue seriously.

Her hand fluttered away from his and a flush stole quickly into her cheeks. Had he deliberately repulsed her overture? Did he still consider her a devil-may-care modern?

An awkwardness descended upon them that lasted until they reached the boathouse. Helen found relief in helping Bob get the canoe launched.

The commonplace phrases they used banished much of the restraint that had fallen upon them and gradually, as they glided over the smooth water, the spell of the night revolved itself into their minds.

To Bob Helen appeared to be an ethereal creature from another land. Her white dress merged into the background of moonlight and water like a part of the moonlight itself. Only a glint now and then from his spangled jacket when she stirred slightly hinted of reality.

He was glad when she began to sing. In a low, melodious voice. His sense of having been transported out of his own world was becoming uncomfortably convincing.

Conversation seemed not to suggest itself to either of them. They were living their hour, not discussing it as they would when they were older and sought to recapture the rapture of an awakening that never can be repeated. Old lovers talk, relive their dreams. Youth dreams. They were content with silence—the silence of song.

PRESENTLY Helen said they must go back and Bob headed the canoe toward the boathouse without vocal protest. Every instinct in his nature cried out against parting so soon.

Their good night was strictly formal. But the thoughts with which they fell asleep were not. Bob was wondering what it would be like to bury his face in that alluring wealth of hair and Helen was thinking that—well, for once Leonard Brent did not get her good night thought.

Brent stepped forward and Helen introduced him to Eva. "Pretty kid," he thought.

But in the morning he came to Bramblewood and his suavely forceful personality caught at her wavering interest and fastened it securely upon himself again.

Helen told him about the accident to Eva Ennis and asked him to drive to the hospital with her. Brent was quite willing to go.

Mr. Cunningham's questions were dangerous—and Helen's company as well. He must avoid the appearance of having anything but a paternal interest in her and this he could not do without harm to his plans. For he spent much time with her. For certainly an aloofness on his part would engender a similar attitude on hers in time, he reasoned.

They were admitted to Eva's room without delay. Helen went swiftly to the bed and took the hand that Eva extended in a touching friendliness.

"How are you?" she inquired anxiously.

"Very little pain this morning, thank you," she replied.

"I telephoned late last night and they told me you were sleeping," Helen said.

"Yes. After Bob left. He came in late." Eva's eyes were shining with excitement as she looked at Helen. Bob had told her that he'd been in Bramblewood—told her how wrong he had been in his first judgment of Helen. Eva was delighted, because nothing could make her believe that Helen was entirely to blame for the accident.

She attempted to express this derneath the delicate skin of the cheeks.

She looked very sweet and delicate, very appealing and feminine. Rather a novelty to Brent, meeting a girl like her. It struck his fancy to give it attention.

Eva tore her eyes away from him. "The doctor says I may go home in a few days," she said to Helen.

"I'll come for you," Helen promised.

A few minutes later she left with Brent. "What do you think of her?" she asked when they were out of Eva's hearing.

"Sweet," Brent answered indifferently.

A cloud passed over Helen's face at his answer. Of course she couldn't have expected him to admire Eva. She knew too well the type of woman to whom he bowed in admiration.

Brent wanted to know what was back of the accident and Helen told him frankly that she had been bored to desperation by the life at Bramblewood.

BRENT understood what she left unsaid—that she had been longing for him. Secretly he glowed with satisfaction. But when he spoke his voice was tinged with sadness.

"I'm sorry you haven't been happy," he said, "because I believe your grandfather is getting to love you."

Again a shadow passed over Helen's features. "I'm afraid he is," she agreed. "And I'm very fond of him, too—in spite of . . . everything."

Brent sighed. "Well, my dear, you must not harbor resentment. He is not the same man who was unkind to your mother. She would forgive him if she were here and I'm sure she would ask you to do the same."

"But it's so different from all I had planned for and dreamed of," Helen protested.

Brent took her hand and gave it a reassuring squeeze. "Never mind," he said promisingly; "we can play again when everything is adjusted."

Helen felt uneasy. "Oh, but I think my accident has made me realize that I mustn't think so much about myself," she said quickly.

Brent's face darkened. "Did I hear that little Ennis girl say something about a chap she called Bob?" he asked.

Out of the corner of his eye he observed Helen's change of expression. It was very slight, but it was unmistakable. He noted, too, that she hesitated a second before answering.

"Yes," she said simply.

"Who is he?" Brent asked, and Helen was conscious that the question had snapped from his lips in irritation.

She turned her head and regarded him in amazement. Was he jealous of her? Strangely the thought was not so pleasing to her as it would have been a few days earlier. She was aware of dreading it now.

"He's Eva's brother," she said quickly.

"I see," Brent mused. "You have met him?"

"Yes." That simple word, uttered as Helen uttered it, told Brent more than Helen herself knew it contained. It set his hair-trigger brain to work to save his scheme from smashing on a natural hazard.

"Helen," he said suddenly, "wouldn't you like to come in and go to the theater with me?"
